Employee Health Simplifies Its Schedule

With a goal of simplifying schedules and improving service to employees, the Employee Health Offices at both sites established "walk-in" office hours for nursing and clerical staff on a regular hours basis. The new hours will be the same every work week (excluding holidays) and will allow employees easier access for hepatitis B vaccine, other immunizations, TB skin tests and copies of health records.

Scheduled appointments are still required for physician services, including pre-employment exams, medical surveillance exams, return to work checks and revisits for work-related injuries.

Mary Ellen Beideman, RN, director, Employee

Health Service, also points to two sessions at each site that begin at 7 a.m. to more readily accommodate night shift employees.

The simplified schedule replaces a complex set of hours for specific services.

New hours at 17th & Chew — now located in Room 37 on 6T — are Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 10 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m. The office there is open from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Thursdays and 8 to 11 a.m. on Fridays.

At Cedar Crest and I-78, office hours are 1:30 to 4 p.m. Mondays, 7 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays, 7:30 to 10 a.m. Wednesdays, 7 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays, and 8 to 11 a.m. on Fridays.

Auxiliary Gift: $190,000

With one pledge completed, members of Lehigh Valley Hospital Auxiliary wasted no time jumping into another big project.

At the annual luncheon, Barbara Showalter, president, handed a check for $190,000 to Paul Nurick, chief operating officer, to not only complete a $400,000 pledge but also get a running start on a $320,000 drive for diagnostic equipment.

The former pledge was to pay for renovations to 5A and purchase 24 new monitors for PCCU. The new drive is for a portable fluoroscopy unit and a thoracic transesophageal ultrasound, both to be used in Operating Room.

Auxiliary members also witnessed the installation of three new officers. In addition to Showalter, they are Elayne Hasik, first vice president, and Maria Dresen, corresponding secretary.

Employee Health Simplifies Its Schedule

The remaining hours are for appointment-based visits.

Beideman says that about 170 employees visit the offices daily, and the staff receives nearly 500 telephone inquiries every day.

Also being established soon is a "needlestick hotline" to review procedures should an employee sustain a significant exposure to blood or body fluids. A phone number and starting date is expected to be announced soon.

The hotline offers a recorded message outlining steps an employee must and can take in the event of an exposure — most of which, Beideman notes, occur during lapses in sound infection control procedures.

To that end, ongoing educational efforts have led to a decline of more than 30 percent in the past year in both blood and body fluid splashes and puncture wounds.

The hotline counsel includes four steps to take, beginning with cleansing the wound with soap and water, completion of Incident Report (ADM-03) and Certification of Significance (AAO-04) forms, and delivery of the forms to the Employee Health Office. Within 72 hours — but often as quickly as 24 hours — the significance of exposure will be evaluated by an Employee Health physician.

Should an employee wish a source patient to be tested for antibodies to human immunodeficiency virus, the employee will be counseled and asked to consent to a baseline HIV test. Infection Control will then approach the patient's physician and source patient about HIV testing.

Testing for HIV and hepatitis B generally takes two to four days to complete, and the lab is authorized to give the results only to Infection Control or Employee Health — not the exposed employee or healthcare provider directly. Employee Health will inform the exposed employee of patient test results.

The entire protocol for exposure assessment is contained in the Infection Control Manual under the Employee Health section.

In the hotline message, employees will be advised that "experience has taught us that it is prudent to discuss this exposure with as few individuals as possible. Later on, you may regret having told many individuals about your exposure." Mindful of the anxiety that goes with exposure, Employee Health encourages those with concerns to contact Employee Health, Infection Control or the AIDS Activities Office.

Recreation Committee Offers Football Excursion

For those who are fans of the Philadelphia Eagles, Chicago Bears or just pro football in general, the Recreation Committee has an October outing being organized by Barrie Borger, Information Services.

The specific contest is the Eagles-Bears collision at Veterans Stadium on Oct. 10. Tickets are $47.50 per person, which includes round trip bus transportation departing Cedar Crest & I-78 at 10:30 a.m. Those intimate with the stadium will be interested to know that seating is in section 701, rows 19 and 20.

All money is due by July 30.

Borger notes that only one bus is scheduled, and therefore advises fans to order seats early by calling ext. 1451.

Family Night at Dorney

For employees who like their thrills a little closer to home, the Hospital Recreation Committee plans a family night at Dorney Park on either Aug. 11 or 12. Cost for the park and Wildwater Kingdom is $8 for the hours of 5 to 10 p.m., and tickets can be used either night. There's an additional $3 per car parking fee at time of admission.

Employees may order tickets directly from Sharon Bartz at ext. 8480, or checks payable to the recreation committee may be sent directly to her at CC-Physical Therapy.

CheckUp is a biweekly employee publication of Lehigh Valley Hospital, Public Relations, 1243 S. Cedar Crest Blvd., Allentown, PA 18103. Interoffice mail submissions should be addressed to 1243SCC-PR. For additional information, call ext. 3000. Lehigh Valley Hospital is an equal opportunity employer. M/F/D/V

No, this nasty looking device is not the thing used to snatch and haul away illegally parked cars. It's actually a special barrier to protect workmen installing six-and-a-half-foot diameter pipe that will run under parking areas between the mechanical building and the John and Dorothy Morgan Cancer Center. The huge pipes (below), which resemble beached whales along the edges of the parking lots, are to hold heat, water and electrical pipes and lines that, in effect, plug the cancer center into the hospital's current system.

Peer Support Team Plans Training Session

Another training program for new members of the Nursing Peer Support Team is planned for early November, and nurses interested in joining the crew may contact Karen Peterson, RN, at ext. 2482, or Marilyn Guidi, RN, at ext. 8936, for additional details.

The group, which presently numbers about 20, is the product of a group of nurses who sought to address the consequences of cumulative stress among their peers.

Peterson, who is a clinical facilitator in Psychiatry, observes that nurses tend to be stoic about the running barrage of little stresses, and believe that once a small crisis passes, it's history.

In fact, she explains, it tends to get bottled up and eventually causes burnout. "What often happens," she notes, "is that they leave nursing."

The Nursing Peer Support Team was developed with the consequences of group stress in mind, and a call for help is usually prompted by an event that affects a number of people on staff who have been bottling up individual stresses.

In the past year, the team has received 21 calls from throughout the hospital to provide the patient ear "when only a peer will do." More often than not, it's the opportunity to ventilate and drain cumulative grief and stress that makes the program so successful.

What also helps, Peterson says, is that the purely voluntary service is absolutely confidential. "We don't provide answers," she says. "We listen, and we help nurses find their own answers."

She continues that "the nurses on the team are great people," and the training program itself allows individuals to better recognize and deal with stress they face on a daily basis.

This is the stuff barbecues are made of: big hotdogs and corn on the cob, liberally basted with real butter. It was a welcome respite as summer settled in at 17th & Chew.

The 17th Street Barbecue

When summer rolls in, there's nothing quite like a barbecue to celebrate — even if it's for 350 hungry employees. Scott Muth, lead worker, and Scott Levan, first cook supervisor, Food Service, manned the grill that launched mouth watering scents all over the area of 17th and West Streets. Yes, there was a fire extinguisher nearby.

As the lunch hour rush got into high gear, the lines got longer and longer at the barbecue — who could resist the scent of those broiling burgers and the sounds of the oldies music from WAEB radio? Among those who plunked down three bucks for a summer treat was Paul Nurick, chief operating officer.

Okay, you've got a pair of inflated rubber gloves attached to the end of a set of barbecue tongs. Now all you have to do is catch a little rubber ball with it. How did she do that, anyway? It was among the games brought to the event by WAEB morning man Bobby Gunther Walsh.

Sue Hettler and Pat Flammisch, both Mailroom employees, were among many who stepped out into bright sunshine on a perfect day to load up on corn on the cob.

About Our People

A Tale of Super Daughters

One of the better moments in pride for many moms is seeing their child deliver the valedictory address at a high school graduation.

But for Ai-Jee Ng, RN, PCCU, it was even better — both her daughters shared the honor at Allen High School in Allentown, and no, they're not twins. Irene Ng and Jennifer Ng are a year apart in age, but Irene skipped up to Jennifer's grade in elementary school.

Allen High School officials say they don't think siblings have ever shared the honor at the school, made all the more remarkable because both girls had precisely the same grade point average — right to a ten thousandths of a decimal place.

Yet even more astonishing is that when the family immigrated to the United States five years ago from Malaysia, both girls could barely speak English. Described by their parents as being totally opposite in personalities, they will also pursue different directions this fall.

Irene plans to attend Harvard University to study biochemistry and economics. She'd like to be a surgeon, but she doesn't want to abandon her acting career — yes, that's her on the ABC soap opera All My Children, and you'll be able to see her in the new Oliver Stone film, Heaven and Earth.

Her acting pursuits meant she missed five of the nine months of school, but studied hard anyway from a distance and often with the help of Jennifer and a fax machine.

Jennifer, described as the less competitive of the two, will attend Cornell University to major in chemical engineering. "I just want to relax a bit," she says.

Tammy Jamison, physician recruiter, HealthSearch, received a bachelor of arts degree in business communications from Allentown College on May 22. She previously held an associate's degree from Montgomery County Community College.

Lou Bottitta, Information Services, was a speaker at the Third Annual Clinical/Bedside Computing Conference and Expo on June 28-29 in Toronto, Ont., Canada. He participated in the conference's special track on Clinical Interface Engines and presented Lehigh Valley Hospital's "Generalized Data Interface" approach for interfacing the Phamis Lastword patient care system to departmental computer systems. Russ Bartholomew, Information Services was the lead technical resource on the two-person team that developed and implemented Phase I for lab ADT, medical records Softmed and Medisgroups decision support and physician billing.

Ken Mead, RN, director of patient care services, 6N, was named director of the Adolescent Partial Hospitalization Program. Until a replacement is appointed, David Mitchell, RN, director of patient care services, 6S, is coordinating 6N activities.

James N. Burdine, Dr PH, was recently invited to participate in Merck Pharmaceutical's Profes-

It's tough path for certification as a cardiac tech, but it's easier when a group gets together and makes it a department project. Recently tacking the initials CCT after their names to signify successful passage of the exam are Heart Station employees (from left) Diane Semmel, Cheryl Sansinger, Donna Lee Brown, Amy Frederick and Debra Doddy. Absent was Sue Schauer.

How Dangerous Is That Stuff?

With the proliferation of industrial chemicals in workplaces, protecting the health of employees became a major concern to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

Communicating the exact nature of the hazard to those involved with the chemicals led to Hazard Communication Standards and a simple set of chemical labelling designed to alert workers to the type of danger involved.

Because potentially hazardous substances are a fact of life in a modern healthcare setting, Lehigh Valley Hospital's Safety Department places a high priority on making sure products are labelled, informational posters are nearby, and detailed information about the chemical is handy.

Product labelling has become standardized, and focuses on four different types of hazards: health, flammability, reactivity and personal protection. Each, in turn, is ranked from zero to four to indicate minimal, slight, moderate, serious and severe hazard. In short, the higher the numbers, the more potentially dangerous the product is.

It's law that "MSDS" sheets — that stands for Material Safety Data Sheets — are readily available to workers involved in handling hazardous materials. Those standardized sheets are designed to provide specific and detailed

About Health Hazards Ratings

Color coded blue on hazard labels, health hazard ratings range from zero (no significant risk to health) to 4 (life threatening; major or permanent damage may result from single or repeated exposures). In between are • 1. Slight Hazard — irritation or minor reversible injury possible. • 2. Moderate Hazard — temporary or minor injury may occur. • 3. Serious Hazard — major injury likely unless prompt action is taken and medical treatment is given.

How Easily It Burns

Color coded red on hazard labels, flammability ratings range from zero (which means the materials are stable and will not burn unless heated) to four (which means very flammable gases or very volatile flammable liquids that have flash points below 73°F and boiling points below 100°F).

In between are • 1. Slight Hazard — materials that must be preheated before ignition will occur (these have flashpoints, which is the lowest temperature ignition will occur, at or above 200°F). • 2. Moderate Hazard — materials that still must be heated before ignition, with flashpoints between 100°F and 200°F. • 3.

Serious Hazard — materials capable of ignition under almost all normal temperature conditions, including flammable liquids with flashpoints below 73°F and boiling points above 100°F as well as liquids with flashpoints between 73°F and 100°F.

How Easily It Reacts

The yellow portion of the hazard label indicates hazard levels for reactivity, especially with water. Again the range is from zero (normally stable, even in a fire, and will not react with water) to four (readily capable of detonation or explosive decomposition at normal temperatures and pressures).

In between are • 1 - Slight Hazard — materials that are normally stable, but can become unstable at high temperatures and pressures, which may react nonviolently with water. • 2. Moderate Hazard — Normally unstable, these materials will readily undergo violent chemical change, including violent reaction with water, but will not detonate. • 3. Serious hazard — materials that are capable of detonation or explosive reaction, but need a strong initiating source, or must be heated under confinement before initiation, or materials that will react explosively with water.

What's News...

New Pediatrics Area

A new outpatient pediatrics area, on the second floor at 17th & Chew, will open July 20. In addition to several clinics programs, the service will offer specialty services in Pediatrics.

An open house for hospital employees will be held on July 19 from 7 to 10 a.m. and 2 to 3:30 p.m.

On the Move

The office of the Education Coordinator at 17th & Chew recently moved from room 913 to rooms 1901, 1902 and 1904 (formerly Employee Health), School of Nursing. The phone number, ext. 2903, remains the same. Additionally, Kathy Ray will join WomanCare and be responsible for the poison prevention program, and she will be located in those offices as well.

Fund-Raiser for Trauma

A celebrity softball game featuring race drivers from Grandview Speedway, a dunk tank and a variety of games and picnic food will be featured July 10 at Bechtelsville Community Park in Bechtelsville — all to raise funds for Lehigh Valley Hospital's trauma program.

The event is planned by the Checkered Flag Fan Club. The auto racing group simply wishes to express its gratitude for having a Level I Trauma Center in the vicinity. Hospital employees are welcome to the event.

Illegal Parking Warning

Because of construction, Security has been sympathetic to parking violations for the past six months or so, but now that there's plenty of space for all cars, a firmer stance has been taken.

Gerry Kresge, director, Security, says the "generosity has elicited numerous complaints from hospital staff because of our leniency to people who park inappropriately."

No longer. Cars parked on access roads, crosswalks, turnarounds and in unauthorized parking areas will be removed at the owner's expense. Kresge says that if your car is towed, you can contact Security through paging to find out where you can pick up your car.

The new policy went into effect June 14, and had the immediate effect of solving the problem.

A Sweet Idea

Food Service now offers a "sweet gift with a healthy twist" at both cafeterias, Monday through Friday: fresh fruit baskets available for purchase and in-hospital delivery.

Price is $19, tax included. There's no employee discount on the item.

A display is set up in the cafeteria, along with order forms, which, when completed, should be presented to cafeteria cashiers for payment and confirmation.

Baskets are assembled and can be delivered between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Orders taken between noon Friday and 8 a.m. Monday will be made and delivered on Monday before 3 p.m.

Employee Health Walks

Incentive prizes for participants in the June Employee Health and Fitness Walks will be distributed outside the cafeteria entrance July 9 at 17th & Chew from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Prizes at Cedar Crest & I-78 were distributed July 7.

Baby Reunion

Bruce I. Rose, PhD, MD, and his practice, Fertility and Reproductive Health Services, will host a baby reunion on July 18 at the Rose Garden Pavilion from 2 to 4 p.m. Since the practice was established three years ago, more than 100 babies have been born to couples who turned to Rose for help with infertility.

Rose is also the medical director of the Male Fertility Assessment Laboratory and the Lehigh Valley Sperm Bank.

Employee Meetings Schedule Announced

A series of employee meetings to discuss topics of current interest will be held at both hospital sites beginning July 19.

HRD Activities

The next hospital orientation will begin at 8 a.m. at Cedar Crest & I-78 on July 19 and an optional tour of both sites will be held July 21 beginning at 1 p.m. at 17th & Chew and 2:30 p.m. at Cedar Crest & I-78.

information about exactly what's in the container, how to handle it, and what to do in the event of a mishap. All the ingredients are included, as well as how to contact the manufacturer.

Hospital safety officials stress that all employees should know exactly where to find MSDS information in their respective work areas and should take the time to become familiar with them.

An important third part of the information process is found on posters throughout the hospital that further detail hazard indices with a series of letter codes ranging from "A" to "K" that specify what types of protective apparel should be worn when handling hazardous materials. It ranges from safety glasses all the way up to airline hoods and full protective suits.

Correction

The new price of 16 ounce cups of lemonade and iced tea was incorrectly reported in the last edition of CheckUp. Correct prices for the items are 60 cents, or 51 cents after the employee discount. Prices include state sales tax.
